

Trusts And The Rising Generation.

Under existing trust conditions it is not to be wondered at that the thoughtful people of America are becoming alarmed over the prospect before their children. Giving voice to this alarm in a recent editorial in Harper's Bazar, a publication devoted exclusively to the interests of woman and family and home affairs, and a journal of the most conservative character. No charge of political bias can be made against the Bazar, and, therefore, what the editor writes on this important question must be accepted as justified by facts. Upon the subject of monopolies and the influences they will exert upon the lives of the young men and women and boys and girls of America. The Bazar uses the following vigorous language:

"Take the Standard Oil company, for instance. The profits of this concern for the current year are estimated at $92,000,000. Would not Mr. Rockefeller smile if your son set out to establish a business that would not snatch the power to fix prices out of Mr. Rockefeller's hands? Precisely there is where trusts have mothers by the heartstrings. It is not so bad about prices—we may struggle and meet this—but trusts impose upon our sons a future of serfdom. The individual enterprise that is possible under a reign of trusts is a resort to the economic conditions of the barbarian. The alternative is serfdom—a clerkship, if you will, a managerial position at the handsome salary in the trust concern, perhaps, but he is the minion of the sugar king, the real baron—the trust that employs him. He is a creature of the trust, with no hope, no future in which he may be master of himself. This is woman's cause for hating trusts, for fearing monopolistic tendencies of every sort. Her boy, yours, and yours are defrauded of their American birthright—liberty and independence—while trusts operate to create a royal descent of money kings to rule the "common" people. Women's enmity against trusts is not on economic grounds. It stands on the American people of liberty and equal rights, and the strength of it is the love of a mother's pride in her son."

Deafness Cannot be Cured

In local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best. And still they come! The latest Republican to desert McKimley is Senator William H. Harrison of Maryland. He has not formally announced his intention, but it is well understood that he will take the stump for Bryan.

Prevented A Tragedy.

Timely information given Mrs. Geo. Long, of New Straitsville, Ohio, saved two lives. A frightful cough had long kept her awake every night. She had tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her; and she writes, "this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of its power to cure all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed. Trial bottles free at T. E. Paull's drug store."

The Democratic members of the General Assembly, when that body convenes in extra session next month, will have in their power to make the calling and election of Governor Beckham sure. The adoption of a fair and non-partisan election law, such as the party in its platform is pledged to enact, will spike every gun in the Republican battery and withdraw from their ranks a body of allies, without whose active assistance they have no possible chance to win.—Louisville Times.

For The Old Republic.

In the steadily lengthening list of influential men in public life who supported Mr. McKimley in 1896 and who will oppose his re-election this year because of their condemnation of his un-American policy of imperialism and militarism there is found unmistakable proof of the maintained strength of true American sentiment in this country.

Senator Vest, in his authorized interview in last Sunday's Republic, did not fail to call attention to this fact of Republican defection from the ranks of McKimleyism. He noted, also, that the Republicans opposing the President's policy were among the oldest and most experienced leaders of their party, the names of Edmunds, Sherman, Boutwell, Hale and Harrison being mentioned by Mr. Vest in support of the truth of this assertion. It is now easy to add to this notable list many other names of Republicans equally well-known. Such conditions at such a moment are ominous to the administration party.

It is a reasonable certainty that as the time approaches when a decisive choice must be made between McKimleyism and Americanism there will be a host of other Republicans who will find themselves unable to vote for Empire as against the old Republic. Men whose ancestry is traced back to Revolutionary days cannot shame their blood by betraying the free government established by their fathers. Men who have been taught to love the Republic as the very figure incarnate of liberty and justice will not consent to dishonor the Republic by degrading it to policies of oppression and injustice. Men who found under the flag of the Republic a safe refuge from the tyranny of monarchical Europe will never assist to align that glorious standard with the cruel banners of the Old World in wars of conquest for the subjugation of weaker peoples.

This is the sentiment against which McKimleyism must prevail at the polls in November if the Imperial President is to remain in power. It is difficult to believe that the American people shall be seduced into a betrayal of the Republic by the sordid temptations of Empire. It will be far more in keeping with their blood and traditions if in November they administer to the McKimleyites a rebuke so stern and effective that never again shall an American President see fit to lead his party against his country.—St. Louis Republic.

Center of Population.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The center of population as shown by the present census is practically certain to be in Monroe county, Ind., about at Bloomington. The probabilities are that it will be in the semi-circle with a radius ten miles to the north of Bloomington as the center.

This calculation is based rather more upon the general movement of the population center than upon the returns of this census, which are not sufficient as yet upon which to base accurate predictions. The fact is that the center of population of this country moves with great regularity, and more slowly than is generally supposed. The center of population in the last century has moved so regularly that it has varied less than twenty-five miles north and south. It started twenty-three miles east of Baltimore in 1790, in north latitude 39 degrees, 16.5 minutes, and west longitude 76 degrees, 11.2 minutes.

The center has moved westward on about the 39th parallel of latitude. In 110 years it has never been farther north than in 1890, and only as far south as 35 degrees, 57.9 minutes in 1830. In 1890 the center was in Decatur county, Ind., a little west of south of Greensboro, which is the county seat. At the next census, that is, in 1910, it should be about on the dividing line between Illinois and Indiana. Bloomington, Ind., will then be the hub of the United States.

THE SHIRT WAIST MAN.

(New York Sun.)

Behold me,
Costless and cool;
I am the shirt waist man
And if I don't
Take the rag off the bush
I take the coat
Off my back
And fling it
In the face of conventionality.
What do I care
If Fashion
Piles the perspiration
Up knee deep
On the backs
Of coated men?
It doesn't monkey with me,
For I yank off my coat
And Fashion
Chases itself out of my Neighborhood
And leaves me
Cool
As a cucumber.
Of course
My shirt waist
Isn't cut according
To the pattern
Of the lady shirt waist
And it lacks
Fluff and puff
And furbelow
And has a
Superfluity of narrative
Perhaps,
But it gets there
Just the same.
And I am comfortable
While those
Coated with conventionality.
Sweat and swear
And kick holes
In the Weather Bureau
And loose their tempers
In an overflow of temperature.
The shirt waist man
Isn't a recognized institution
Just yet,
But he's a coming man
And the hot weather
Brings him out
As it does the tassels
On a field of corn,
And soon the streets
Will blossom with him.
Not altogether
A thing of beauty,
But verily a joy,
During the heated term,
That's me.
The shirt waist man,
And as long
As I keep cool
Conventionality
May go to thunder.

If the farmers of Kentucky will refuse to sell their tobacco to the trust this year and offer every pound raised by them on auction market a repetition of the past few years will not again result, but instead it is safe to predict no less than two cents more for each pound sold will be realized by them. With a twenty-million pound purchase, as the case with the trust this season, it can be independent of the market to a great extent, and being so, will not pay within several cents a pound of what it would be compelled to pay if its entire purchases were made on an auction market. It looks about time the farmers were realizing these and acting accordingly. If they are against trust, and realize the evils of them, why let the trust get tobacco cheaper than their competitors?—Louisville Weed.

The Famine in India.

The famine now being experienced in India is the greatest in the history of the world, greater than any previous Indian famine, greater than the terrible famine in Russia three years ago. The yearly, average rainfall in India is forty-one inches. In 1899 it was thirty inches, the lowest ever known, and the famine this year is the consequence.

The famine prevails over an area 417,000 square miles, with a population of 54,600,000, and about 15 per cent of this number, or 8,100,000, is supported by the British Government, while 6 per cent is taken care of by the native States.

By the end of Summer it is estimated that between $45,000,000 and 50,000,000 will have been expended in behalf of the famine sufferers, the great bulk of which has come from the treasury of the British empire. Private subscriptions in the United Kingdom have amounted to $1,850,000, and in this country they have also reached a sum.

It is gratifying to know that a comfortable sum has been sent to the sufferers from Nashville, over $50 so far, and we do not doubt that much more will be contributed. It is stated that 2 cents will save the life of a starving person in India a day, so Nashvillians who have contributed to the famine fund have the satisfaction of knowing their united efforts have sustained over 2,500 people one day.—Nashville American.

Story Of A Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. It is a god-send to weak, sickly, run-down people. Cure guaranteed. Only 50c. Sold by T. E. Paull, druggist.

Right and Profitable.

Even with the question of our duty as created by our national principles eliminated from a consideration of the Chinese crisis, it is to the material interest of the United States Government to maintain its traditional attitude in dealing with that problem.

This country has legitimately no concern with the quarrel now developing between the land-grabbing Powers of Europe as the future disposition of China. It has both the right and the power to see that its trade interests are fully protected, and this right and this power may be enforced without its becoming embroiled in the European quarrel. It should limit its action in China to the performance of this duty and, in the event of the massacre of the American Legation, to the punishment of those guilty of that crime.

If the United States Government is led by England into taking a more active part in the settlement of the Chinese problem the result will be costly indeed. The general European war so long dreaded by the world is almost inevitable in the course of this attempted settlement. Should we become a party to that war it will mean the expenditure of many millions of dollars and the sacrifice of many thousands of American lives. There will be no good excuse for the policy which produces such results.

During the civil war, as well as in our late war with Spain, diarrhoea was one of the most troublesome diseases the army had to contend with. In many instances it became chronic and the old soldiers still suffer from it. Mr. David Taylor, of Wind Ridge, Greene county, Pa., is one of these. He uses Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says he never found anything that would give him such quick relief. It is for sale by M. Cravens.

Another's Testimonial

Influences J. M. Beecher to Use
Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

J. M. BEECHER, Sr., of Belleville, Kans., has this to say of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. "I desire to inform you of the great benefit I have derived from the use of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, hoping that this may influence some other sufferer, as I was influenced from reading another's testimonial. My early symptoms were about six years ago, when I at first felt shortness of breath and later, sharp shooting pains about my heart, etc. I frequently consulted my family physician, but his prescriptions gave me no relief. My trouble grew worse as it became older until I was unable to get a good night's rest, and frequently I would have to get up and go to the window for air. To get any sleep I was compelled to prop my head and shoulders up so that I could breathe. I began using Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and experienced relief from the beginning. I continued for some time and it fully restored my health. That was three years ago."

Heart disease, unchecked, never grows better of itself. Its course is from bad to worse. The first symptoms are usually ignored with the thought, "I don't think I can have heart trouble;" and the timely opportunity is neglected and the case becomes serious. Thousands of weak hearts are liable, at any moment, on the least over-exertion to fail and the victims shock their friends by their sudden and untimely deaths.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure restores Health. Shortness of breath, weak and huffy spells; palpitation from some sudden fright, going up stairs rapidly, or other extra exertion; severe pains in region of the heart, etc., are sure symptoms of heart weakness. Hon. W. H. Bassett, for twenty years judge of the county court at Tuscola, Ill., writes: "About two years ago I experienced trouble with my heart, having severe pains in my left side, resulting from a severe spell of erysipelas. I began using Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and continued until I had taken six bottles and believe it has cured me, as I have had no trouble since. It is surely an excellent remedy and I do not hesitate to recommend it as I believe it will relieve any case of heart trouble."

Dr. Miles' Remedies are sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit or the money will be refunded. Book on the heart and nerves sent free by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
